DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

- 1) 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

- 1-1) Claims 1-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 1-29 set forth non-functional descriptive material but fail to set forth physical structures or materials comprising of hardware or a combination of hardware and software within the technological arts (ie., a computer) to produce a "useful, concrete and tangible" result. For example, Claims 1 the "method" reads on a mental construct/abstract idea or at best a computer program, per se. The language such as "dynamic document" does not clearly define structural elements and are not tangibly embodied on a computer readable medium. Claims 1-29 are interpreted as software per se, abstract ideas or mental constructs and not tangibly embodied on a computer readable medium or hardware.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

- 2) The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2-1) Claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 29 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Orr et al (US 5895476, issued Apr 20, 1999, see IDS).

Regarding claim 1, 18, Orr teaches "providing ... template" (ie., dynamic document template)(col 2, line 59).

Orr teaches "binding an ... template" (ie., content elements added based on the template)(col 7, lines 1 – 18)(ie., content rendered according to design description)(col 8, lines 16-25).

Regarding claim 2, Orr teaches "describing ... layout design" (ie., design description ... brochure layouts with photographs)(col 8, lines 15-54; fig 1a, 1b, 1c).

Orr teaches "defining ... template" (ie., design engine)(col 8, lines 16-20)(ie., design description ... output specification ... reformatting ... automatically recalculating)(col 1, line 27 – col 2, line 8).

Regarding claims 3, 12, 22, Orr teaches "defining a set ... document" (ie., OLE embedded objects or HTML page)(col 1, lines 40-45).

Orr teaches "defining ... values" (ie., content elements)(col 1, line 30).

Orr teaches "defining ... dynamic objects" (ie., design descriptions ... automatically integrate content OLE objects)(col 1, line 25 – col 2, line 22).

Regarding claims 4, 15, 25, Orr teaches "data values ... media items" (ie., content may come from database or other sources)(col 7, lines 63-65)(ie., combinations of content ... media features)(col 5, lines 33-46).

Regarding claim 5, Orr teaches "providing a set ... type of said object" (ie., disparate file formats ... removing program specific formatting)(col 5, lines 50-57)(automatically performs document layout)(col 5, lines 35-40).

Orr teaches "providing ... dynamic document" (ie., ... wide variety of distribution mechanism)(col 5, lines 35-45).

Orr teaches "providing ... objects" (ie., user changes are automatically recalculated. The version prior to recalculation is a placeholder for the adjusted format/style)(col 5, line 65 – col 6, line 8).

Regarding claim 7, 14, 24, Orr teaches "storage system ... actual item" (ie., content processing from a wide variety of resources ... disk)(col 5, lines 47-55)(content facet ... pointer to a text string containing text)(col 16, lines 65-67).

Regarding claim 10, Orr teaches "amending ... logic plan" (ie., three-way separation of content, design, media allows layout of content into intelligent dynamic document templates. One can modify the template without modifying the overall design logic)(col 2, lines 50-67).

Regarding claims 11, 21, Orr teaches "logic section" (ie., logical construction of a document)(col 12, lines 9-20).

Orr teaches "layout section ... object" (ie., OLE objects ... document layout)(col 5, lines 30-45)(content elements are added in a location)(col 7, lines 1-10).

Regarding claims 17, 29, Orr teaches "providing a set ... type of said object" (ie., disparate file formats ... removing program specific formatting)(col 5, lines 50-57)(automatically performs document layout)(col 5, lines 35-40).

Regarding claim 19, Orr teaches "plurality of pointers ... sources" (ie., content from multiple sources ...)(col 2, lines 55-60).

Regarding claim 20, Orr teaches "data sources ... media items" (ie., content may come from database or other sources)(col 7, lines 63-65)(ie., combinations of content ... media features)(col 5, lines 33-46).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3) The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3-1) Claims 6, 13, 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Orr et al (as cited above), in view of Li (US 6725227, filed Nov 2, 1998).

Regarding claims 6, 13, 23, Orr does not expressly teach, but Li teaches "set of rules ... Relational Algebra" (ie., Relational Algebra)(col 9, line 23).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Orr to include Relational Algebra as taught by Li, providing the benefit of managing Web and intranet documents efficiently where users store documents contents in databases and structures and users can create and logically combine physical or logical databases for visually and organizing documents (Li, col 1, line 65 – col 2, line 26).

3-2) Claims 8, 9, 16, 26, 27, 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Orr et al (as cited above), in view of Poole et al (US 6006242, issued Dec 21, 1999, see IDS).

Regarding claims 8, 16, 26, Orr does not expressly teach, but Poole teaches "Relational Database tables" (ie., conventional relational database scheme ... table of rules with boilerplate clauses)(col 1, lines 40-50).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Orr to include a relation database scheme as taught by Poole, providing the benefit of an apparatus and method for dynamically constructing electronic and printable documents and forms (Poole, Abstract section).

Regarding claims 9, 27, Orr does not expressly teach, but Poole teaches "assigning ... tables" (ie., conventional relational database scheme ... table of rules with boilerplate clauses)(col 1, lines 40-50).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Orr to include matching database tables with boilerplate clauses as taught by Poole, providing the benefit of an apparatus and method for dynamically constructing electronic and printable documents and forms (Poole, Abstract section).

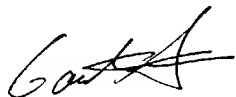

Regarding claim 28, Orr teaches "instances sets ... database tables" (ie., content may come from sources other than a database)(col 7, lines 63-65).
